About Conference

India, as a developing country, features a mixed economy in the world. Since, the independence of the country, India has been developing in many perspectives from the economic point of view. Although the Indian economy is developing in nature, it tends to move towards a developed economy.

Half of India's workers rely on agriculture, the signature of a traditional economy. One-third of its workers are employed by the services industry, which contributes two-thirds of India's output. The productivity of this segment is made possible by India's shift toward a market economy.

Since the 1990s, India has deregulated several industries. It's privatized many state-owned enterprises, and opened doors to foreign direct investment. The major reforms in the Indian economy were done in the year 1991. Today, Indian economy: incorporates the co-existence of the private and public sectors wherein the country leverages international trade.

The major challenges faced by the Indian economy are climate change, inflation, low per capita income which are threatening the path of progress. The Republic of India, has diplomatic relations with 201 states around the globe, having 199 missions and posts operating globally while plans to open new missions in future.

The aim of the conference is to reflect on the achievements and explore scope of future development, challenges and opportunities for Indian Economy.

ABSTRACT

This Paper tries to analyse the status of Women Empowerment in India and highlighting A changing Scenario of women Empowerment. Women empowerment can be defined as promoting women's sense of self-worth, their ability to determine their own choices and their right to influence social change for themselves and others. Today the empowerment of women has become one of the most growing concerns of 21st century. Today's Women is not Abala she is Sabala. In India our constitution gave her rights so she came out of the shell of male domination and old traditional bindings and proved herself by sitting on the position of public officer, entrepreneur, and teacher to Prime Minister. Women are now equal partners of the society. This research paper throws light on the present scenario of women empowerment and the factors like education, self-awareness, decision making power, social awareness, political interest etc. responsible for the women empowerment.

Keywords: Women Empowerment, Responsible Factors, India

1.0 INTRODUCTION

The empowerment of the women is highly significant issue of our times. There are so many saints and statesmen who have struggled for the empowerment of women in India. The empowerment of women is a multi-dimensional aspect which demands active participation of various shareholders in developing nation like India. The economic empowerment of women includes ownership and control of research right to property, employability and improvement in the standard of living, fulfilment of basic needs, entrepreneurship development and improvement. In general women empowerment means giving freedom and opportunity to women so they can realised their entity and enhanced capacities. In India special care is taken in case of women's right by passing various laws and programmes for example The Dowry
